Re: Motion for further Disclosure August 26, 2011

Case/File # 3161-999-10-001942
Offence Trial Date – January 4, 2012

On August 26th, the Defense motioned the court to order the Crown to provide further Disclosure in regards to the Compulsory Automobile Insurance Act.

The motion was to clarify the meaning of the word "person" as it applies to the act as the act itself fails to define the word. As well, there are numerous definitions to the word in various law dictionaries.

As stated in court by the Defense, Barron's Fifth Canadian Law Dictionary narrows the definition down to two: natural and artificial.

The Crown responded to this motion by stating it "believes" it applies to both "natural" and "artificial" persons but did not know for sure. The Crown stated on the record it will provide a written statement for the Defense upon written request (to the Crown Attorney's office). This is the official written request for that statement.

Please call 647-477-4650 when a signed written statement is available for pick up. Due to the time sensitive matter, please respond within a two (2) week period.

Thanks,

Shawn-Alan of the Cassista family

Casefile # 3141-995-30-001342
 Offense Trial Date - January 4, 2012

On August 26th, the Debtor notified the court to order the Crown to provide further disclosure in regards to the Consumer Automobile Insurance Act.

The motion was to clarify the meaning of the word "person" as it applies to the act as the act itself fails to define the word. As well, there are numerous definitions to the word in various law dictionaries.

As stated in court by the Debtor, Barron's Fifth Canadian Law Dictionary reserves the definition down to two: natural and artificial.

The Crown responded to this motion by stating it "believes" it applies to both "natural" and "artificial" persons but did not know for sure. The Crown stated on the record it will provide a written statement for the Debtor upon written request (to the Crown Attorney's office). This is the official written request for that statement.

Please call 647-477-4620 when a signed written statement is available for pick up. Due to the time sensitive nature, please respond within a two (2) week period.
